Neoletters is a geometric sans-serif monospace font created by me, Oren Watson. This font is designed at a native pixel size of 16px. this equals 12pt on Windows and Linux, and size 16 on Mac. Sizes that are integer multiples of the native size will look ok, but blocky, while certain sizes that are simple fractions of the native size (like 6pt. 8pt. and 9pt) will be blurry but usable. sizes that are high-denominator fractions of the native size will typically look awful. This font doesn't seem to work well with ClearType at small sizes. It supports a large number of languages and all kinds of mathematical, techincal, and miscellaneous symbols. Support for modern European languages is 100%, and in addition it supports some ancient European alphabets: Glagolitic, Runic, and polytonic Greek. Work is in progress to support Japanese, and various Brahmic scripts are in the todo list. Eventually Arabic and Korean will be added, and finally I plan on adding chars from Simplified Chinese. A sectioned list of characters supported is below the sample text. !"#$%&`()*+,-./0129456789:;<=>?
